MORGAN'S CONDITION BECOMES CRITICAL

AMERICAN FINANCIER REPORT-ED DANGEROUSLY ILL
AT ROME.

BANKER REFUSES FOOD

NOURISHMENT IS ADMINISTERED
BY ARTIFICIAL METHODS.

FACTS HAVE BEEN CONCEALED

Physicians in Issuing Bulletin Indicate Worst Is to Be Feared Unless Reaction Sets In.

Rome, March 30.—J. P. Morgan is in a most critical condition. This is the official announcement made here today by the attending physicians. For several days he has been unable to take any nourishment and his weakness has given rise to the gravest apprehension.

Up to Saturday night Mr. Morgan's son-in-law, Herbert L. Satterlee, and the physicians made every effort to conceal Mr. Morgan's true condition. The bulletin issued tonight, however, indicates that the worst is to be feared if a reaction does not speedily set in. Dr. M. Allen Starr, the noted nerve specialist, was summoned from Naples. Dr. Starr already has made an examination of Mr. Morgan on the latter's return to Naples from Cairo. He reached here last night and visited Mr. Morgan immediately. He visited him again this morning and for a third time in the evening. Prof. Giuseppe Bantoni and Dr. George A. Dixon also were in attendance. The physicians, who are in complete accord on the diagnosis, issued the following bulletin:

Physicians' Statement.
"A week ago Mr. Morgan was persuaded to go to bed and remain there, to gain his strength. Wednesday he did very well under this regimen. He slept well under the aid of the drugs and took a satisfactory amount of nourishment. Wednesday afternoon he began to refuse food and since then it has been impossible to nourish him. He has lost weight and strength very rapidly. His nervous system is showing this and it has added to the strain seriously."

"Mr. Morgan has not developed any organic trouble, but is so exceedingly weak that his present condition must be considered more critical."

(Signed) G. BARTIANELLI,
M. ALLEN STARR,
G. A. DIXON.

Nourishment Through Injections.
The only nourishment which the patient has been able to receive for several days is through injections to which the physicians had to resort and they fear this is not sufficient to sustain him for any length of time. Dr. Starr was startled at the change in Mr. Morgan's appearance since he saw him only a short time ago at Naples and was much concerned. The physician said that the patient's condition is gradually becoming weaker. The insomnia from which he suffers is with difficulty being combated by drugs, but the narcotics are having a pronounced effect on his heart. The most distressing symptom for those surrounding him is the patient's complete silence. For this reason it has been impossible to say whether he now realizes his condition.

Requests Message.
The last words uttered by Mr. Morgan were a request to have his limbs massaged, a treatment which had often been given to him on former occasions when suffering from nervous disorders.

All attempts to make the patient swallow anything, even water, have been vain. The physicians explain that this is due to the lack of functional vitality in the nerve centers, which under such conditions, arrest the functioning of the organs. They are opposed to the desire of Mr. and Mrs. Satterlee to remove Mr. Morgan to London, considering that any exposure at present would be extremely dangerous.

Only tonight did the gravity of Mr. Morgan's condition become generally known in Rome and anxious inquiries concerning him have been pouring in. Even King Victor Emmanuel, who has always remembered Mr. Morgan's generosity in returning to Italy the famous Ascoli Cup when he learned that it had been stolen, has privately inquired concerning the banker's progress, although his majesty is at present absent from Rome.

Last night Mr. Morgan was resting relatively quiet. It was said he had slept little.

Mr. Satterlee still gave it as his belief that owing to the robustness of Mr. Morgan's constitution he was not in immediate danger. He added that the whole trouble was due to strenuous efforts during the last few months, in which Mr. Morgan had expended much energy.

So Much Concerned.

New York, March 30.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., discussing tonight the cable advice from Rome concerning his father's condition, said:

"I considered the cable this morning somewhat reassuring but the one this evening is less favorable. We cannot but feel anxious, as it is clear that the doctors are much concerned because of Mr. Morgan's increasing weakness and inability to take nourishment."

"SMOOTHING OUT" PROCESS STARTS

CONGRESSMEN PREPARING FOR REVISION OF TARIFF DUE
SOON.

FINAL PLANS UP TO WILSON

Methods of Handling Different Schedules Yet Are Undecided—Congress Meets April 7.

Washington, March 30.—The "smoothing out" process that is to be initiated this week in preparation for the handling of tariff revision in the extra session that opens April 7, is regarded by congressional leaders as the most important step in the program of action outlined.

Senator Simmons, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, is to confer with Chairman Underwood of the House ways and means committee tomorrow or Tuesday, and both are to talk with President Wilson and arrange for further conferences, at which disputed points will be settled and a program of action outlined.

While the tariff bill practically is completed, important developments hang on President Wilson and upon the result of a full canvass of the democrats of the senate.

To President Wilson will be left the decision as to whether there will be one general revision bill or separate measures for each of the different schedules of the tariff law. A majority of the house tariff makers, who have worked out the revision bills, favor the single bill idea, and if President Wilson supports the plan a single bill will be offered to the house. This plan already has aroused sharp opposition in the senate, however. The free goods and 15 per cent duty on raw wool, put into the bill by the house committee, will be the target for attack in the senate, not only from republicans but from democrats who come from states where sugar, woolen or wool-growing industries predominate. Should a single general tariff bill be introduced with the approval of President Wilson, it is believed the senate democratic leaders would be forced to yield to the democratic separate vote on the two schedules. In such event they might be taken out of the general bill and passed as amendments.

"Market Basket" List Important.

The extent to which President Wilson may desire a reduction of duties on agricultural products, comprised in the so-called "market basket" list, will have a marked influence upon the support that may be given the new tariff provision by progressive republicans in both houses. The tariff on wheat, barley, oats, and other farm products has been cut about in half by the house committee. If the rate of duty is approved by President Wilson it is believed a large body of the progressive republicans of the house will vote for the democratic bill unless other reductions as so extreme as to make them change their plans are partially agreed to. The democratic bill will not include the additional progressive or republican support in the house, where the democratic majority is large, but democratic leaders would welcome the shift of the vote to republicans if progressive votes in the senate to strengthen their narrow majority, which may be disturbed by a bitter fight on free sugar or upon the wool duty.

President Wilson's tariff message, substance of which has been communicated to leaders of both houses of congress, is understood to have received general approval for its brevity and its absence of comment upon details of the tariff bills.

Special Session Near.

Within the ten days that precede the opening of the special session it is planned to settle, so far as possible, all of the disputed points and to reach a general basis of agreement that will insure speedy action and few changes in the tariff bills.

Income Tax Is Problem.

The income tax, as framed, is expected by the Democratic leaders at the house to successfully run the gauntlet of both houses and to become a part of the permanent national revenue system. The scheme embodies these features:

Exemptions—All incomes under $4,000; incomes of eleemosynary institutions, etc.

Rates—Minimum, 1 per cent on $4,000; graduated up to a maximum of 4 per cent on $100,000 or more.

Method—Enforcement of the "collection at the source."

Principle—So as to obviate the personal assessments as much as possible; collection through corporations or other employers instead of directly from the employees whenever practicable.

The rates and exemptions are still subject to change, though the figures stated are expected to stand. The income tax feature was written, in its essentials, by Representative Hull of Tennessee. It is designed to bring into the treasury not far from $100,000,000, not including the present corporation tax of about $30,000,000.

Midlothian Men Commercial Club.

Midlothian, Tex., March 30.—At a mass meeting of the progressive citizens of this town a Commercial Club was organized with the following officers: T. C. Perry, president; Dr. J. E. Sewell, vice president; D. R. Holland, secretary; Buck W. Brown, treasurer. The first work of the club was to establish a monthly trades' fair.

CARRIAGE WRECK AT AUSTIN HURTS 2 OF PROMINENCE

Austin, Tex., March 30.—Mrs. R. A. Greer, wife of the vice president of the Texas Bank and Trust company, Beaumont, Tex., suffered a broken leg last night shortly before midnight when her carriage, in which she was going to the Houston & Texas Central depot, overturned at the corner of Ninth and Guadalupe streets.

Hugh L. Stone, an attorney of Houston, who also was in the carriage, escaped unhurt. Libbie Hicks, driver, had her right arm injured when the vehicle rolled over on him.

Mrs. Greer, who has been visiting with her sister, Mrs. H. Y. Benedict, of Twenty-sixth street and University avenue, wife of H. Y. Benedict, dean of the university, and Stone, who is a nephew of Mrs. Benedict, had entered the carriage to go to the depot, where they were to leave on the late train for Houston.

Train Jumps Track; Passengers Ducked But Escape Injury

Fonda, N. Y., March 30.—New York Central train No. 40, the Buffalo Special from Buffalo to New York, jumped the track at Yosta, near here, at 6:40 o'clock this afternoon.

Three sleepers, a buffet car, an express car and the day coach went into the Mohawk river and were partially submerged, but all passengers escaped. Seven persons were slightly hurt. The accident was due to the weakening of the track by floods.

Taft Leaves Winter Home To Take New Duties as Professor

Augusta, Ga., March 30.—Former President William Howard Taft, who has been at his winter cottage here since March 5, left this afternoon for New Haven, Conn., where he will take up his duties as professor of law at Yale University. With him were Mrs. Taft and son, Charles Taft.

Since Mr. Taft's arrival in Augusta he has spent nearly all of his time in recreation, devoting many hours to his favorite game of golf. He has been visited during his stay here by a number of men prominent in national politics, but made no statement before his departure as to his probable future activities in the reorganization of the Republican party.

OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI BOTH ARE LEAVING BANKS AT VARI-OUS POINTS.

SEVERAL CITIES ARE FLOODED

All Former Records of Floods Broken
at Huntington, W. Va., By Greatest Rise.

Cincinnati, March 30.—Flood conditions at Portsmouth, O., and Huntington, W. Va., are reported to be serious tonight. Both cities are cut off from outside communication but telephone reports from nearby towns are to the effect that both cities are deep under water.

At Portsmouth two lives are said to have been lost. The reports that a serious fire had occurred at Portsmouth are denied. At Huntington the water is three feet deep in the downtown section. Both towns are said to have sufficient food to last three or four days.

Surgeon General Rupert Blue, anticipating serious flood conditions west of here, has wired commanding officers in charge of the United States marine hospitals at Evansville, Ind., Memphis, Tenn., and Cairo, Ill., to open the hospitals for flood victims.

The surgeon general and his assistant, Dr. W. C. Rucker, will remain here to direct sanitation measures. Dr. Blue has available $100,000 of federal funds for work in the flooded district.

PARKERSBURG UNDER WATER.

West Virginia City in Worst Condition

Parkersburg, W. Va., March 30.—The crest of the Ohio river flood reached here late today with a stage of 58.9 feet, six feet higher than the record of 1884. The river is receding slowly. Two companies of militia are guarding the city.

In Belpe, Ohio, across the river from Parkersburg, a large crack has appeared in a dam. Most of the Belpe residents have sought safety here. Belleville, eighteen miles away, is practically wiped out. It is reported several lives have been lost but it is impossible to verify the reports tonight. A relief party started for Belleville late today. The people are camping on a hill above the town.

Two lives in the toll of the flood water in Parkersburg. The damage is enormous. Fully 5,000 persons are homeless here and at Belpe and Belleville.

It is said all the houses on Blennerhassett Island have been swept away. The residents were rescued in small boats.

The food supply here is plentiful, but a water famine threatens.

Reports received here from Marietta, Ohio, today say no lives have been lost, but thousands are homeless and heavy damage has been inflicted. An appeal has been sent to the war department for provisions and tents. The entire business section of Marietta is inundated.

OHIO BREAKS RECORD.

Flood of 1884 Is Broken at Huntington, W. Va.

Huntington, W. Va., March 30.—(Via Charleston, W. Va.)—All records were broken here tonight when the Ohio river passed the flood stage of 1884. At 9 o'clock the river had reached a height of 58.1 feet and continued to rise slowly. It is expected that a stage of 65 feet will be reached.

Several lives have been reported lost; hundreds are homeless and property damage amounts to thousands of dollars. Churches and schools have been thrown open to refugees and the relief commission, headed by Mayor Chapman, has been distributing food to the hundreds who have been marooned.

Man Commits Suicide.

William Sullivan committed suicide tonight after the rescuers had taken his wife and children from the second floor of their home. When Sullivan ascertained that the rescuers could not save him he killed himself. All public utilities are out of commission and the city is almost isolated.

According to reports received here, similar conditions prevail in Point Pleasant, W. Va., Catlettsburg, Ky., and Ironton, Ohio. The Huntington national guard has been ordered into service and Governor Hatfield has been asked to aid in the rescue work.

WORK ALONG MISSISSIPPI.

Levees Are Strengthened in Anticipation of Higher Stage.

Memphis, Tenn., March 30.—Levee workers put in a busy Sunday along the central stretches of the Mississippi river preparing for the pouring out and those directing the work of bolstering up the embankments expressed themselves as more hopeful than ever that the waterway would be held within bounds. No decidedly weak points have developed.

At Memphis the gauge at 7 o'clock tonight showed a stage of 35.4 feet, four-tenths above the flood mark, a rise of two-tenths during the day. Cairo, where the Ohio empties into the Mississippi, reported that the L. 3, a rise of six-tenths since 7 a. m., and at Vicksburg, Miss., the stage was 39 feet, a rise of five-tenths in twelve hours.

40,000 PERSONS IN NEED OF FOOD

OHIO GOVERNOR'S SECRETARY
SUMMARIZES NEEDS IN THAT STATE.

LINEMEN REGARDED HEROES

Repair of Telephone and Telegraph
Lines in That State Requires Casting Aside of Fear.

Dayton, O., March 30.—Here is the problem presented to Dayton tonight as summarized by George J. Purba, secretary to Governor Cox, and representing the latter:

Forty thousand persons must be fed, clothed and housed for a week more.

Many thousand persons, who lost their all when their household goods were swept away, must be cared for indefinitely. They must be provided with a few necessary household articles, such as bedding, pots and pans, stoves and a few dollars. A half million dollars could be used in this way by the relief committee.

Fifteen thousand houses and business buildings must be rehabilitated. Two thousand houses and other structures, or what remains of them, must be pulled down.

Thousands of tons of debris must be removed.

For many of some of the accomplishments since a flood broke over the city Tuesday morning:

The water works pumping station is in operation but the distribution of water is greatly retarded by open pipes in wrecked houses. The pressure is feeble but growing stronger as leaks are checked.

The main sanitary sewer is in operation, although many of the laterals leading from houses are clogged with mud or backed up with water.

The flood sewer, separate from the sanitary, will be in operation tomorrow. These sewers carry off the rainfall from the gutters and are needed now to remove the water being pumped from basements.

Telephone service is fast catching up with requirements, which have been and are still enormous.

Linemen Are Heroes.

No braver soldiers have been performed than those by the telegraph and telephone linemen who made possible the dissemination of news to hundreds of thousands of friends and relatives of Daytonians. They waded and swam day after day and entered torturing buildings unhesitatingly in pursuit of their duty. John H. Patterson, chairman of the general committee, last night found many operators who had removed their shoes nor clothing since last Tuesday.

There is enough food and clothing for present needs, but relief will be required on a diminishing scale for another month.

The acting chairman, Patterson announced that W. F. Bippus will act as treasurer for all contributions and will make a strict accounting to all contributors.

Extends Martial Law.

By order of Governor Cox the reign of martial law over Dayton was extended to take in the whole county today. The flood did more than sweep away property, for it swept away the city administration.

The extension of martial law was proclaimed the municipal administration was eclipsed.

Adjutant General Wood, for the moment, become supreme under the governor.

On the heels of this, Mr. Patterson was appointed chairman of a committee of five to administer the affairs of the city. The militia was instructed to obey his orders and thus became a police force. It is doubtful if martial law will ever be repealed at 1:30 a day.

The present arrangement the city has the free services of the biggest business men and the most expert professional men in Montgomery county.

The extension of the area under martial law developed from action taken by local dealers whose places are closed. They complained that saloons in the outskirts were sending whiskey into the city and that considerable drunkenness had been observed. Adjutant General Wood reported the situation to the governor and his action was prompt and decisive.

The telephone system is still a wreck, which is a great handicap in administering the affairs of the city. Street cars are unable to run and automobiles are unavailable for other than relief except by bringing them here from Cincinnati at 1:30 a day.

Sightseers in motor cars felt the heavy hand of public necessity when General Wood began taking possession of machines. The sightseers were ordered from the cars and the motor were pressed into public service. Protesters were unavailable. The more stubborn surrendered at the points of rifles and gave up their cars "until released" by order of Chairman John H. Patterson, as the placards placed in them read.

The Sixth regiment, O. N. G., from Toledo and Northern Ohio towns, which has been on duty here, commandeered a train when ordered to Cincinnati and departed before nightfall. The naval reserves from Toledo went on the same train.

100 Bodies Recovered.

Coroner B. W. McKemy estimated that 100 bodies have been recovered, though there are records of only 72. He said many had been buried without the usual official action and that 10

many cases he did not expect to get records.

Hundreds of persons still looking for relatives passed along the lines at the morgues, fearing they should find their loved ones there. Only a few bodies have not been identified.

Eight persons suffering from diphtheria are at the Miami Valley hospital. Seven of them were caught in a house with a person who had recently become ill with the disease. Four persons hemmed in with one that had measles are suffering from that disease.

There are two hospitals in Dayton but St. Elizabeth's was flooded on the first floor, so all sick and injured were taken either to the Great hospital or the state asylum here.

Some Minds Affected.

Those whose minds have temporarily become affected because of hardships suffered in the flood are being cured for at the latter places.

With warm weather the greatest problem was the removal of the carcasses of dead horses.

Every available automobile truck and all the horse drawn drays were impressed by the sanitary officials and hundreds of men were engaged all day removing the carcasses to the different incinerating plants and to vacant plots on the outskirts of the city, where they are buried.

Hundreds of sightseers arrived for a holiday in the city only to be impressed into the service of the sanitary department and were forced, in some instances at the points of bayonets, in the hands of the sightseers, to assist in the removal of carcasses.

From end to end of Dayton the people were cleaning house. Those who had no houses to clean were working cheerfully in assisting those who had. Merchants and what numbers of their employees who could be found, were clearing the piles of wrecked stocks of merchandise with scoops and shovels. The mud in some places, several feet deep, was being thrown into the streets.

Streets Filled With Refuse.

Broken glass was piled into great heaps and ready to be carted away. Counters and store fixtures were heaped in alleys and carloads of merchandise, water soaked, and for the most part practically worthless, were placed on the sidewalks and on improvised shelves in stores.

In Riverside and North Dayton, where the flood waters attained the greatest depth and degree of destructiveness, several thousand persons waded knee deep in slimy mud, rummaging their desolated homes for clothing. All of this, of course, was soaked and plastered with mud, but it was dried on the hillsides, where the populace had taken refuge. In some places in these districts the water had so far receded as to render possible the beginning of the work of cleaning the lower floors of mud and debris, so that in a few days fires can be built within the houses and the premises dried out.

But it will be a long time before all Daytonians will live in their own homes. Fifteen thousand residences require plaster and paper before they can be occupied. 4,500 need new foundations, roofs, doors, windows or other repairs before their owners can move in again, and 2,000 are in such shape they must be razed and new structures built.

Much Reconstruction Needed.

The citizens' relief committee, on advice from engineers, had decided that this reconstruction work will require four months, even if building material can be obtained promptly.

So far as the business and industrial buildings are concerned, it has been estimated by architects who have looked over the different premises, that it will require eight months before the repair work and building can be accomplished. In the interim, business will be done in whatever places may be available.

H. E. Talbott, who was commissioned by Governor Cox, chief engineer of the military zone, completed his plans for beginning the rehabilitation. He announced that four departments have been created with an assistant engineer in charge of each. One will have charge.

Work To Be Rushed.

Thousands of men will be employed and work will be pushed to the utmost in all departments. Cursory surveys have been made and large quantities of material ordered by telegraph to be shipped immediately. A system of accounting has been devised and put into operation with John V. Lytle, former county treasurer, acting as comptroller. Money will be available from the state and county governments, besides help expected from the federal government to be used in levee construction. It was pointed out by officials of Engineer Talbott's department that the Miami river is under federal control and that congress will be urged to make an immediate appropriation to straighten and deepen the channel.

The pumping plants were inspected by experts and reported to be in fairly good condition, considering the fact that they were for many hours under ten to twelve feet of water. The machinery was found to be capable of being put in operation and the big pumps began to pump. But the city is still without anything like an adequate water supply and the danger of a conflagration still is the subject of grave concern.

Theodore A. Burnett and T. H. Smith, government food inspectors, have taken charge of the food supply in so far as inspection is concerned and have appointed twelve deputies. All shipments of supplies from other places are being carefully examined before being given to the refugees. Particular attention is being given to meats and canned goods.

Pure Water Needed.

Announcement was made that the principal needs of the people are drinkable water, shoes, clothing, picks and shovels. Money is wanted, although a considerable amount has been subscribed by cities throughout the country and now is available.

The medical authorities have forbidden the use of old clothing until after they have been examined. It is urged upon the general public that old clothing is not desirable for fear it may bring a pestilence in some form to a city unable at present to cope with more disaster.

Such contributions as may be intended for the relief of the sufferers should not be of such a nature that disease might add to the horror of the situation.

An interesting result of the disaster here is the probability pointed out by several members of the organization in command of the situation that Dayton may never again resume its former system of municipal government.

When the flood came the city was without funds, it was stated, and heavily in debt. Mayor Phillips was marooned, as also were the chief of police, the chief of the fire department and many city officials, including councilmen.

Military Law May Continue.

It was said by a state official that military law may prevail in Dayton for perhaps a year to permit the governor's commission to carry out the plan for the reconstruction of the city upon which it has decided. In the interim the municipal government is without authority. Soldiers of the national guard will police the city possibly with the assistance of the local police force, the members of which will be sworn in as special state officers and everything pertaining to the city's government will be directed from the offices of the relief committee, which has been increased from the original five to fifteen.

On every hand are to be heard discussions of the advisability of adopting a commission form of government for Dayton, to which the present arrangement is a makeshift.

More than 300 physicians, including thirty-five from other cities, had been assigned to duty under the direction of Major Thomas L. Rhoades, designated by Secretary of War Stimson to take charge of sanitation. As soon as they reported the physicians were turned over to the health experts in each of the sixteen sanitary districts.

Flood Districts Divided.

The flood districts, under direction of the secretary of war, had been so divided as to leave the homes of 7000 people in each district. Major Rhoades said the work of cleaning out mud and debris from homes was well under way.

"Our purpose is to make the destroyed homes habitable as soon as possible so as to minimize the necessity for relief," said Major Rhoades. "Physicians are at work providing for the sick. Distinct districts are to be supplied in great quantities. Already many families have been able to return. Within a few days, with the further restoration of system, the removal of the mud and debris and the turning on of lights and water supply, we believe that a large part of the population now homeless will have returned."

Ernest P. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross, arrived to confer with the local relief committee. Mr. Bicknell said that a total of $500,000 was available for flood sufferers, $350,000 of this amount being in the hands of the Red Cross. He will return to Columbus tomorrow.

OHIO SITUATION.

Work of Cleaning Up Debris Continues.

Columbus, O., March 30.—With previous reports being minimized substantially, while the work of cleaning up the debris has begun in earnest, the Ohio flood took on a more cheerful aspect today as viewed by Governor Cox and other state officials. In many sections reconstruction has already commenced.

Governor Cox stated that the condition in this state is well in hand. General John C. Spaulding, chief of the Ohio National Guard, received an official message from Portsmouth today stating that fire had not broken out in that city and that but one life had been lost.

Governor Cox announced today that no contribution for Ohio flood sufferers will be accepted from foreign countries. This was made plain by the governor in declining with thanks a cable offer from Sir Thomas Lipton for $1000. "Theodore Roosevelt set such a precedent at the time of the San Francisco earthquake," said the governor, "and in that matter I think he was right."

Members of the Ohio legislature will be asked to recess for a week by Governor Cox, when they reconvene here tomorrow. This will allow the governor and other state officials, assisted by municipal and county officials from various cities, to frame a reconstruction policy which will be presented to the general assembly.

WALL OF WATER IS LOOSE.

Embankment Near Grayville, O., Gives Way.

Evansville, Ind., March 30.—The breaking of the Illinois Central embankment on the Indiana side of the Wabash opposite Grayville, O., Saturday at midnight, let a wall of water into the lower Wabash valley which has been the cause of much trouble and destruction, flooded the town of New Harmony and made rescue parties work like heroes to save lives. In Black township, Posey county, a call for the state guard to take charge of the situation is being made to Governor Ralston.

The breaking of the Illinois Central embankment threw an unexpected flood against the Louisville and Nashville embankment on the Wabash at Maumee, Ill., ripping out 4000 feet of track and putting out of commission the last line Evansville had to the north and west. Tonight the only through railroad left out of Evansville is the Louisville and Nashville south.

The Ohio river at Evansville at 10 p. m. registered 45.2 feet, no doubt is expressed that a record stage will come by Wednesday. Oakdale and other levees are being threatened, but no damage has been done so far.

The levee at Shawneetown, Ill., is said to be doomed, as the combined Ohio and Wabash floods will strike it about Wednesday. The town is being deserted. One life was lost at Mount Carmel, Ill. Dean Adams was carried against the Southern railway bridge in his launch, which was overturned.

MANY TOWNS IN DISTRESS.

Conditions at Cairo, Ill., Growing Rapidly Worse.

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—Startling messages have been received tonight by Governor Dunne and Adjutant General Dickinson, indicating that Shawneetown and Cairo are in imminent danger of being washed off the map. Other towns are in distress.

Messages received by the governor from Sheriff Frazer and Mayor Parsons of Cairo described conditions as extremely alarming. Fears were expressed that the levee might break at any minute with an inevitable heavy loss of life and immense property damage.

The entire Seventh regiment, Illinois National Guard, and the command of Colonel D. Moriarty of Chicago, was ordered out by Governor Dunne. Previous to taking this action the governor had already ordered five down state companies to Cairo.

In talking over the telephone with Governor Dunne, Mayor Parsons stated that despite flood warnings advising residents to move to higher ground, the number of those who have taken this advice has been offset several times over by thousands of refugees from all along the river who have been rushing into Cairo. Assistant Adjutant General Shand today arrived at Shawneetown and assumed direction of relief work at that place.

Leaves for Cairo were expected to be in a weakened condition and is likely to give way at any one of a score of points. The river is steadily rising tonight.

Garrison Visits Hamilton.

Hamilton, Ohio, March 30.—Secretary Garrison, who is touring the flooded district as the personal representative of President Wilson, visited Hamilton today, coming over from Cincinnati by automobile. So impressed was the war secretary by the magnitude of the situation here he is being handled by the citizens and Ohio national guard that he announced he would telegraph President Wilson that nothing needed for the present emergency is lacking. The secretary was told that the health list here will not number more than 50, with the property lost estimated at $4,000,000.

Secretary Garrison found that the work of rehabilitation was going on under martial law.

With Secretary Garrison were Major General Wood, chief of staff of the army, and Major McCoy. They penetrated every part of the city through scenes of devastation which in many respects rivaled in horror those through which they passed in Dayton.

It has been noted that the volume of the Miami's waters early left their source, gouging out for long extents what for the time being was verily a new river course. This was taken to indicate that the force of the flood was immeasurable and was a feature which greatly interested Secretary Garrison's party.

General Wood, who went over part of the ground twice, thought the railroad bridge above the city, which remained fast during the onslaught, may have been responsible for the diversion of the mighty current so far away from its regular course. He went into this phase of the situation with Lieutenant Finch of the army engineer corps and asked for a full investigation and report.

As soon as Secretary Garrison's car reached High street the panorama of desolation was laid bare to the view. The city, and by the way, the street, had been gained the full horrors of the flood were apparent on all sides. Near the Y. M. C. A. the car was stopped to permit the passage of a van load of dead animals.

Long Ties of Coffins.

The tier of coffins running half a block in length stood in front of the court house yard, the basement of the court house having been turned into a morgue. A long line of all sorts and conditions, including men, women and children, was moving slowly through the court house yard past two open coffins. One contained the body of a woman and the other that of a baby girl.

"I am telling all the boys in the Santa Fe yards about Plant Juice," said Mr. J. A. Hampton, car repairer for the Santa Fe, and whose home is at 2008 Bury street. Mr. Hampton is one of the best known and most popular employee of the shops.

"Yes, I am telling them about Plant Juice and what it has done for me," he said. "A lot of my friends are now taking it, and others who are not feeling just right will. I just bought three bottles last night. It sure has done me a world of good. I suffered with kidney and stomach trouble, and Plant Juice is the only thing that has ever brought me permanent relief."

Nearly every man or woman who takes Plant Juice finds in it immediate relief and a quick and permanent cure. To begin with, your appetite will improve, food will digest better, and you will sleep better, lose that feeling of languor and depression and of undue timidity; you will be brighter, feel more vigorous and more fit for your day's work. If you suffer with kidney, liver, nerve or stomach ailments, Plant Juice will do you more good than anything you have ever taken. It will put new life, energy and vigor into you. left for Cincinnati both of these coffins were marked "unidentified." As fast as bodies were identified they were being taken from the yard and were carried to the cemetery. Secretary Garrison was told that 45 bodies had been recovered. Fear was expressed that the mud and debris along the river bank still held many more who were buried under the mud and debris already recovered were found in that locality.

The whole situation for the work of sanitation and reconstruction was laid before Secretary Garrison and General Wood in the Chamber of Commerce building, which has become the headquarters for relief work. Major Pendleton, of the Ohio militia, explained the manner of dividing the city into five sanitary districts, which in turn are being divided into smaller units. The militia hospital corps and the men of the regular army medical corps, under Captain Whaley of Fortress Monroe, working with the utmost harmony. Garrison at Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 30.—Secretary Garrison was tonight so well pleased with the handling of the flood situation by those in charge at Dayton and Hamilton that he decided to leave early tomorrow morning for Columbus. If his present plans are not changed he will return here tomorrow night and leave for Washington by daylight Tuesday morning.

Bees congratulating Governor Cox and the citizens of Ohio upon the manner in which "with courage and resourcefulness they met an appalling situation," the head of the war department, in a long report to the president tonight assured Mr. Wilson that he could rely upon the gallant men of Dayton and Hamilton, as well as all other places seriously affected by the flood, had found themselves and are rapidly tending toward normal conditions.

General Wood, chief of staff of the army, notified the first through train to Indianapolis since the flood left the terminal tonight. All incoming trains today were from 3 to 4 hours late.

Cairo Excites Alarm.

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—Shortly before midnight Governor Dunne received word that the city of Cairo were severed, cutting off telephonic communication. Desperate efforts are being made to establish telegraphic communication. The governor fears that the breaking of communication means the levee has collapsed.

The Largest Indian Tribe.

Christian Herald.

Here are some facts regarding the largest tribe in the United States: The Navajo, numbering 30,000, live in northern Arizona and northwestern New Mexico. They occupy an area about as large as the state of Pennsylvania, most of which is a desert. For centuries they have made their own living by raising sheep and goats.

A part of the wool is woven by their industrious, resourceful women into the beautiful and durable Navajo blankets, which promise to become a fair competitor of the imported rug. On account of the scarcity of water and forage for their flocks and the fact that there is but little of the land that can be cultivated, their lot is not an easy one, but they keep up the struggle, which is rendered more difficult each year by the further and often illegal encroachment of the white man.

They are the special wards of our nation, and the day is rapidly approaching when they must touch elbows with our civilization, which will be the final solution of the "Indian problem," but they are not prepared for the contact.

WILSON CHOOSES SUMMER HOME

PRESIDENT WILL OCCUPY THE DWELLING OF WINSTON CHURCHILL, NOVELIST.

Offers Place for Seclusion

Site of Mansion is Ideal One and Will Meet All Requirements and Desires.

Cornish, N. H., March 30.—President Woodrow Wilson has chosen the home of Winston Churchill, the novelist, to be his summer capital, according to a telegram received here today from Mr. Churchill, who is now in Santa Barbara, Cal. The message was directed to E. P. Roberts, manager of the Churchill estate, and contained instructions for getting the place in readiness for the president's occupancy.

Harlakendens House, as the Churchill property is known, is a two-story brick structure, situated on a hill three miles beyond Windsor, Vt. It commands a view of the Connecticut river valley and of the Green Mountains.

Between 600 and 700 acres of rolling farm land and fragrant pine groves give the estate the seclusion the president desires. Nearby is an artist colony, where Maxfield Parrish, Kenyon Cox and others come during the summer, and where the late Augustus St. Gaudens, the sculptor, spent many vacations.

On the estate are two seven-room cottages where the executive offices can be established and where the president's attendants may live. A tennis court adjoins the mansion house and at the foot of the hill the Connecticut river offers opportunity for boating.

Manager Roberts said two men were looking at the place a week ago, but he did not know whom they were acting for until he received the telegram today from Mr. Churchill.

MAN AND WIFE SHOT; NEIGHBOR UNDER ARREST

Atlanta, Ga., March 30.—J. W. Graham and his wife, formerly of Huntsville, Ala., were shot early today by D. E. Guerrant in an altercation which is said to have been caused by a disagreement over the payment of rent for an apartment which the two families occupied jointly.

Graham and his wife both are in a local hospital, the former seriously wounded. Guerrant and his wife, who witnessed the shooting, were arrested. Mrs. Guerrant later was released but her husband is being held pending the outcome of Graham's wounds.

Graham and his wife are said to be members of wealthy Alabama families.

DID WE REALLY NEED IT?

Suggestion That We Could Have Done Without a New Nickel.

One of life's minor mysteries is the reason why the American government finds it necessary from time to time to make apparently purposeless changes in the designs of its coins. These changes are seldom very much for the better, the alteration is costly and the principal beneficiaries are the designers, the die makers and the coin dealers who cater to collectors. If the United States were in the habit of honoring its presidents by placing profiles on its money, as some countries honor their monarchs, there might be an understandable reason for frequent shifts in design and the changes would require a historical significance. But the country knows no such custom and apparently is ruled only by caprice.

There is, for instance, the new 5-cent piece design which is to supersede the one now in use. The present "nickel" has been about 25 years of service. Its first appearance being in 1863, when it was issued without the word "cents" anywhere on its surface. For a few weeks this omission delighted the hearts of certain crafty gentlemen who promptly filled all the nickels they could get and passed them for 5-cent pieces. Then the government woke up, shifted "E pluribus unum" from the bottom to the top of the V and put the omitted word in the motto's original place. Since then the coin has been a hard-working, thoroughly satisfactory and comely little article.

But somebody somewhere seems to have worried of it. Perhaps it isn't artistically up to date. Perhaps it isn't progressive. Who knows? Anyhow, a change was ordered and a new design was secured from J. E. Fraser, a New York sculptor. We are told that Mr. Fraser felt it his duty to represent something strictly American in conception. So he evolved what he describes as a Cheyenne Indian without his war bonnet and with two feathers fastened in his hair for the obverse side, and for the face he drew what he says is a bison.

We have not seen one of the new coins, but if advance productions of the design are to be trusted it is more artistic than realistic. The Cheyenne's features have a disreputable "morning-after" droop and the Cheyenne's countenance has a beatific expression which could only have been gained by indulgence in fire-water or by a "shot of coke." As for the bison, it is a wonderful brute. Its hump would turn a dromedary green with envy; its back from the hump to the tail would make a fair toboggan slide; it has a neck like a triceratops and a face like a whistled sheep. But it's artistic. And since life without art is a dull leaden waste, why, here's to the new nickel with its incriminated Red Man and his triangular buffalo-Detroit Free Press.

Residents of the capital are nervous because of continued rumors of friction between President Huerta and General Felix Diaz and of plots and intrigues, even to the fixing of dates when a new battle may be expected in the streets or the assassination of one or the other of the principals.

On Saturday so keen was the excitement that the president summoned newspaper men to the palace after midnight to issue a formal statement saying he and Felix Diaz were still friends and working in harmony and that there was no truth in the street gossip.

Huerta's statement was reiterated by Diaz.

LEGISLATORS AT AUSTIN LISTLESS QUICKLY CURES THE WORST BACKACHE

HOUSE AND SENATE STILL DIVIDED ON IMPORTANT LEGISLATION.

LAW MAKERS MAY RECONVENE

Colquitt Will Not Definitely Decide Regarding Another Session, However, Until Tuesday.

Austin, Tex., March 30.—Forty-eight hours before adjournment of the legislature, the members are in a listless attitude with practically no new developments in the matter of legislation.

The free conference committee on the educational constitutional amendment will not convene until morning. The house is firmly convinced that the amendment should carry the permanent income tax and the university A. and M. college divorce feature. The senate with Governor Colquitt has taken the other view and an agreement in the committee is at least doubtful, although no efforts yet have been made to reconcile differences.

The congressional districting free conference committee was at work in small divisions but no agreement had been reached. Work will continue and a bill may be brought in at the last moment in an effort to railroad it through.

Chairman A. M. Kennedy of the joint committee gave out tonight a statement charging that Congressman W. R. Smith of the El Paso district is wholly responsible for the troubles which are being experienced in the committee, because he does not believe in the districting. Representative Burgess of El Paso gave out an answer denying this.

It is found that the Ramsey amendments to the general irrigation bill have been entirely eliminated, and while Representative Burgess and Glascock would have preferred that there be no senate amendments, they now say that the senate amendments do not materially injure the bill and that it will make a good law. The senate has given out an answer denying this.

Governor Colquitt now says that it will be Tuesday noon before he will definitely determine whether or not he will immediately reconvene the law makers. In the event that he does so, there will probably be a recess taken until some time next week that a little rest may be obtained.

Townsend is going to make an attempt tomorrow to pass finally the senatorial redistricting bill which has gone through the house. It will be very difficult to do so, for it takes a two-thirds vote to suspend the rules to put it on final passage. A few days ago the senate absolutely refused to consider the matter.

Townsend figures that the bill will give the pro twenty or twenty-one prohibition senators, if passed, and he thinks that the blame for failure to get this increased pro membership can be placed on the senate. Those who have refused a late hour in the session to consider senatorial redistricting if his plan fails. An effort is being made tonight to get a liquor regulation bill in lieu of the Kennedy bill, which Governor Colquitt will finally approve.

The general mining law has not yet been finally passed and efforts are going to be made tomorrow to dispose of it finally. Efforts to pass what is called the National Child Labor bill, because it is bill advocated by the National Child Labor Commission, will also be made.

RIVERS' CONDITIONS GRAVE

Water coming through the opening in the levee at Brinkwater, Mo., opposite Cairo, is spreading slowly over the lowlands of several counties in southeastern Missouri. The inhabitants have moved to high ground and no loss of life is anticipated.

Companies Held in Readiness.

Cincinnati, March 30.—Two companies of the ninth United States infantry stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky., are being held in readiness to march at an instant's notice to Covington, Ky., where Mayor George S. Phillips fears the city may be in need of military protection due to high water that virtually is surrounding the town. When the river stage reaches more than 68 feet today the lighting plants, electric and gas, already put out of commission, and the city is in darkness.

The soldiers were issued marching orders at the request of Mayor Phillips to the war department that the troops be sent to his city. At the time the mayor telegraphed a request to Governor McCreary that he declare martial law. The request for United States troops was referred to Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Wood, who today returned from an inspection tour of the flooded district in Ohio.

Later a conference was held at which Police Chief Henry Schuler pointed out that as yet the local authorities were in a position to avail itself of the nearness of the federal soldiers to patrol the city.

No Disorders Reported. No disorders have yet occurred, but it is feared by the mayor that with the city in almost total darkness, looting will begin their work. Mayor Phillips also has ordered that all citizens remain off the streets after night fall under penalty of being arrested and lodged in jail.

Tonight the stage of the river had registered 65.4 feet, a rise of exactly one foot since 3 o'clock this morning. According to the weather bureau the rise has been at the rate of 2 feet for 24 hours. The weather bureau authorities said tonight they expected the crest would reach Cincinnati and the gauge would be between 69 and 70 feet, after which the river would gradually begin to subside.

Conditions here are practically remained unchanged today with the exception that the river has preempted more of the section lying along the water front. The streets in that section are under water and relief measures are going forward with energy.

Make Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders and Rheumatic Pains Vanish.

It is no longer necessary for any one to suffer with backache, kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders to contend with, or be tortured with rheumatic stiff joints and the heart-riveting pains, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely relieves all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities, which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It is not like anything else ever used for the purpose. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys soft and filters away all the uric acid and drives it from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principles of Croxone are such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back and sides or have any signs of kidney or bladder troubles, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, or are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. You can secure an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

While many of the residents have been driven from their homes, others who live in taller buildings refused to leave and food is being supplied them with motor and rowboats.

In this city the poorer residents are the greater sufferers, as that section in which they make their homes has been completely inundated and many of the houses have been swept away by the swift current of the river. As the water rose, however, most of these people had an opportunity to bring away their personal belongings and their loss is confined to the contents of their homes.

Heavy Loss at Cincinnati.

The property loss in the Cincinnati water front section which is being estimated by competent authorities, is estimated to be in the neighborhood of $2,000,000. This does not take into account the damage to many of the older buildings where the rapid current, which has been undermining the city, has been great, in the opinion of experts who have made an examination of the district and are familiar with conditions.

Today the river front was the mecca of thousands of curious sightseers who had been attracted by the spectacle of the rushing yellow flood of the river inundating the city south of Third street to a point almost as high as that attained by the record flood of 1884, when a stage of 71.2 feet was registered.

The south bank of the Ohio, opposite this city, is not so fortunate and there the greatest damage in proportion to the size of the several smaller cities will be done. Important manufacturing plants are completely flooded and much money will be required again to replace them in condition for operation. There also will be a great loss in wages to the men who are unemployed for many weeks.

Of the five important towns in Kentucky opposite Cincinnati only one, Newport, has direct communication with this city. So far two of the railroad bridges are unaffected by the rising waters and probably will remain so unless there should be an unexpected stage of more than 70 feet. It is through Newport that communication can be had with Covington, and then only by a circuitous route.

In Newport there are already under water nearly 100 square blocks, located in the section along the south bank of the Ohio and the east bank of the Licking river, which separates that city from Covington, the situation is similar.

The other towns, Bromley, Dayton and Ludlow are still without outside communication, but reports from there is no want of food or other necessities. Relief measures there are said to be adequate and it is said these places will be able to hold out until the crest of the flood has passed down the river.

CONCERN AT LOUISVILLE.

Many Leave Homes, Fearing for Their Lives.

Louisville, Ky., March 30.—The crest of the Ohio river flood, tonight between Huntington, W. Va., and Marysville, Ky., is expected to reach Louisville Tuesday afternoon or night with a stage of about forty-five feet. The stage here tonight at 7 o'clock was 43.2 feet, a rise of one-half an inch an hour. Stage of 43.7 is predicted for Louisville by morning. Advice from Madison tonight indicated that that point had a rise of eight inches in the past 12 hours, and at 7 o'clock tonight the gauge showed 51.7 feet.

From western Kentucky points reports are that the river is rising rapidly, inundating lowlands, driving their occupants to higher ground and interrupting railroad service. At Owensboro the river is within a few feet of the high mark of the January flood and is rising an inch an hour. The tracks of the Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis railroad are under water at Hawesville and Griffith, eight miles west of Owensboro.

Henderson, Ky., is practically isolated by the suspension of railroad service in all directions. Damage to lowlands in that section, according to reports, will amount into the thousands. The river tonight had reached a stage of 43.5 feet at that point and was still rising. The railroad situation in Louisville tonight has become acute. The Louisville, Henderson & St. Louis had suspended traffic entirely. The Louisville & Nashville from Cincinnati could reach the city only by detouring through Jeffersonville, Ind., crossing the swollen Ohio on the Big Four bridge via the Pennsylvania bridge to reach the Louisville & Nashville stations used only by the Pennsylvania train. The Louisville, Indianapolis & Chicago (Monon) succeeded in establishing service only as far as West Baden, Ind. The Chesapeake & Ohio could get only as far as Ashland, Ky., and incoming trains were forced to stop at the eastern extremity of the city. The Illinois Central schedules were undisturbed, but incoming trains reached the depot at the western end of the city. The Union depot at Seventh and River being flooded today by a foot of water. The Pennsylvania lines have established regular service to Indianapolis and by tomorrow will have through trains to Chicago, according to announcement tonight.

Weather Bureau Figures.

Washington, March 30.—The weather bureau tonight issued the following flood bulletin: "The crest of the Ohio flood wave Sunday morning appears to have been reached in the neighborhood of Huntington, W. Va. As hitherto forecast, it probably will reach Cincinnati some time Monday. The river below Cincinnati continues to rise slowly. The stages at 7 p. m. Sunday are as follows: Louisville 43.2, rising, flood stage 50 feet; Louisville 43.2, rising, flood stage 28 feet; Evansville 45 feet; rising, flood stage 35 feet; Cairo 51.3, rising, flood stage 45 feet; Memphis 35.4, rising, flood stage 35 feet. Sunday Tennessee was at a stage of 33.1 feet, flood stage 35 feet. The Cumberland at Nashville was 43 feet, flood stage 40 feet.

Both rivers were slowly rising. The Mississippi is below the flood stage at St. Louis and to the northward also from Vicksburg to the passes. No material change from previously forecast stages is announced.

Kentucky Governor Makes Appeal.

Fayetteville, Ky., March 30.—Governor McCreary last night appealed to the United States supply station at Evansville and to the national commission of the American Red Cross in behalf of Ashland and Wickliffe, Ky., which yesterday requested the governor to send tents and provisions for flood sufferers in the two cities. Ashland requested also that company F of the state guard be ordered there to protect the property and to comply with the arrangements for the tents and the troops, but admitted that the state was unable to send provisions.

Governor Hatfield on Scene.

Charleston, W. Va., March 30.—Governor H. D. Hatfield, in response to a request from Mayor Chapman, left on a special train tonight for Huntington. On the train are provisions, clothing, motor boats and skiffs. Another train with provisions will leave tonight for the territory of West Virginia. Clarkburg has sent a quantity of food to Parkersburg and Wheeling. At the request of the governor who is preparing to send supplies to Marietta and other points along the Ohio river.

Conditions Worse at Huntington.

Huntington, W. Va., March 30.—(Via Telephone to Pittsburgh, March 30.)—This city tonight is in total darkness, is facing both a flood and a fire. In line, 5,000 out of the 40,000 inhabitants are homeless, twelve persons are reported missing and the property damage, according to close estimates of leading business men, will amount to nearly $1,000,000.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the river reached a stage of 66.2 feet, the highest in the history of Huntington, and is now stationary.

Covington Mayor Asks Aid.

Cincinnati, March 30.—Mayor Geo. E. Phillips of Covington, Ky., has requested that two companies of the ninth United States infantry, stationed at Fort Thomas, Ky., be sent there to patrol the city while the Ohio river flood threatens that city.

The request telegraphed to the war department at Washington, has been referred to Secretary of War Garrison and Major General Wood, which has just returned from Hamilton and who are considering it.

PURE MILK LAWS

FACE TESTS IN SUPREME COURT

Washington, March 30.—Attacks on the stringent "pure milk" regulations of several large cities are to be made before the supreme court of the United States.

An attempt will be made shortly after the court reconvenes on April 7 to show that the Minneapolis "test" of cows supplying milk be brought into the city is unconstitutional. On the same date the court is expected to announce whether it will review a case in the local courts wherein it was held that milk containing more than a certain number of bacteria was forbidden the channels of interstate commerce by the federal pure food law.

The milk supply from several cities in addition to Washington crosses state lines. Many other cities, including Boston, Syracuse, Portland, Ore.; Rochester, Trenton and St. Joseph, Mo., have ordinances fixing a maximum number of bacteria which may be in milk sold within their respective limits.

The Minneapolis ordinance was upheld in the supreme court of Minnesota. There was an attack made upon the validity of the test for tuberculosis in cows as being arbitrary and not supported by medical science. That point is not urged in the printed argument just filed in court in behalf of John Quincy Adams, a farmer, who is attacking the ordinance. His attack is limited to trying to prove that the ordinance is class legislation in that it applies to cows outside the city and not to those within the city.

EXPERTS WAGE DISEASE WAR

MEDICAL FORCE OF INDIANA TO GUARD AGAINST EPIDEMIC.

THOUSANDS REMAIN HOMELESS

Much Suffering Left in Path of Flood-swept Cities of Hoosier State.

Indianapolis, March 30.—Central Indiana is summoning its medical force to fight disease which is following in the wake of the devastating flood which swept that section last week. Sanitary experts expect hundreds of cases of typhoid, diphtheria, pneumonia and measles to develop.

A member of the state board of health asserted today that the flood's toll of sixty-one lives in this state probably will be exceeded. Scores of persons in all walks of life have been huddled in small walls and buildings for days. They have been forced to live like sheep and a pestilence is feared.

Thousands of people will continue to be homeless until their residences have been cleaned of the filth left by the receding waters and fumigated. A majority of these refugees have no clothing except what they wore when the flood descended.

While the residents of the river towns in the center of the state are facing a problem of sanitation, the cities along the Ohio river are preparing for the worst flood of their existence. Already thousands of persons have been driven from their homes and the property damage runs into the millions. The water still is rising and the crest of the flood is still four days ago. Railroad communication with these cities has been cut off from the north.

Lawrenceburg, where the levee broke on Saturday, is under seven feet of water. In the Dearborn National and German-American banks only the tops of the safety deposit vaults are visible. Water covers the first floors of the high school and court house, where four hundred persons are marooned.

The whistle at the Lawrenceburg roller mills warned the residents of the town that the levee had broken. In a few minutes a wall of water 10 feet high swept through the town. Sixty houses near the break were crushed and carried away. That no lives were lost seems a miracle.

There are 35000 homeless at Logansport and the military medical corps reports that the danger of a pestilence is greater than at any other point in the state.

Of the forty-two persons reported missing this morning, thirty-one have been reported safe tonight.

The property damage is $1,000,000 there and a call for more aid has been issued.

In response to an appeal from Mayor McDowell at Vincennes, Governor Eli Lilly today ordered 300 tents and supplies sent to that city. Several hundred families living in the valley around Mount Carmel, Ill., near where the White and Wabash rivers meet, have been forced to flee to high ground, where they are without shelter. Relief will be sent immediately.

1,000 SOLDIERS OF BULGARIA DIE IN BATTLE

Constantinople, March 30.—The Bulgarians left 1000 dead on the field after the engagement yesterday with Greek Cretans, according to an official report. Since this engagement all has been quiet along the Tchatalja line, as well as at Bulair.

The fall of Adrianople has caused a feeling of deepest dejection in all sections which has tended to increase the unpopularity of the government.

The British vice consul at Adrianople sends a message that all the consuls and foreign communities are safe and well. His report says that the Bulgarians took only 15,000 prisoners, the rest of the garrison being in hiding.

It is expected that the powers' note on mediation will be presented to the porte tomorrow.

HATS OF FRUIT AND POSIES.

Spring Creations for Women a Riot of Bright Colors.

Every man has heard his wife or sister, or maybe his aunt, remark, as she glanced out of the window: "Will you just look at the hat on that woman? Suppose I wore such a riot of colors on top of my head? I wouldn't mind if you refused to recognize me on the street if I was diked out that way."

Well, the woman of your household will change her mind pretty soon and wear the colors of the rainbow on her hair. The Futurist painters of Paris have inspired the new fashion. These painters are weird in their ideas of form and simply mad as to color.

Therefore, Mme. New Yorker will wear hats of no particular shape or form and in color combinations almost too daring to believe. For instance, with a hat made of picot straw, leg-horn or horsehair, will be seen bright blue, cerise, indigo and emerald, combined with Spanish yellow. One creation shows red, violet, green and yellow.

Among the favorite shades will be "bishop's purple," bright yellow and "letter-box red."

Fruit and flowers will come back to favor as trimmings, and the apple, in all shades of green, red and yellow, will be held in special honor. A chic spring model is a black hat with two apples, one green and the other yellow. Plums, cherries and peaches will also be used by milliners.

Ribbons, which were banned in women's hats last year at the same time as flowers, will come into their own again for decorative purposes.—New York Journal.

"What are you doing for our cause?" asked a suffragette worker. "Doing" replied the man. "I'm supporting one of your most enthusiastic members."—Detroit Free Press.

clips to its problems? We are as badly in need of more factories in Texas as we are of more farms. The factory makes a market for farm products and factory employees are heavy consumers of the products of the farm.

Diversified Farming.
The Farmers' union, is alive to the importance of diversification and has always encouraged it. Farm conditions can be helped by better balancing of crops. No farmer should, as a rule, buy a dollar's worth of feed or supplies during the year, but the Lord
made Texas a cotton country and during our lifetime at least, it will be the money crop of Texas. For the information of those who may feel that diversification is a solution of our problems, I quote below statistics taken from the report of the federal government of agriculture on the three crops in Texas for the past three years. The table shows the farm value of production per acre:

Average... $19.11 $10.88 $11.14
What incentive is there under these conditions for a farmer to diversify
in his money crop?

It may be suggested by those who have read reports on fancy farming that production per acre might have been increased by more intelligent cultivation, but governmental and educational institutions have spent $150,- 000,000 in the United States during the past ten years for improving soil production and improving seeds and plants and the most ardent advocates claim an increase in yield of 2 per cent. If the business men of Texas will lay a steady hand on the cotton crop, Texas during the first three months of the marketing it will add at least 10 per cent to value of the production per acre without costing a dollar and a comprehensive system of marketing our crops will further increase the value of products to the farmer without increasing the cost to the consumer.

There is no escaping the market problem and the development of the state will be retarded until it is solved.
For a market is as necessary for the producer as land to grow the crop.

The Farm Life Commission.
The problem is a monumental one and we will never solve it until it gets within the grasp of a gigantic organization where master minds can concentrate the combined experience and wisdom of the age upon it. It is a problem the farmers, merchants and bankers, the editors and statesmen must unite in solving. I recognize the Farm Life Commission to be such an organization. In this association the farmers are recognized and given a seat in its councils. That organization has the stamp of approval of the leading agricultural and commercial associations of the state, and its purposes are practical and its plans workable. It is undertaking big things in a big way. Mr. E. A. Lindsey, chairman of the commission, contemplates
a trip to Europe to study the methods employed by older civilizations in handling their market problems. Mr. Edwin Chamberlain is chairman of the sub-committee on rural credits, and associated with him are some of the best bankers in the state, and behind them stands the Texas Bankers' association and the National Bankers' association. Mr. Chamberlain has crossed the ocean in his study and research work and the management of the Farm Life Commission and all its sub-committees is in able hands.

The plans adopted by the commission are those advocated by the merchants union for the past twenty-five years and it is gratifying to find the merits of our plans now recognized and the financial and commercial interests lending assistance. We invite all organizations, local and state, all interests and all the people to join in a business solution of the greatest business problems of the age: Farm marketing and rural credits.

Fire Alarms in Maine.

Dwellers in New York, Chicago and other large cities do not have much opportunity to run to a fire alongside the engine. If a man really wishes to enjoy that sort of fun he should go to Maine, where every town and city has an auxiliary fire corps in addition to the paid department, says
the New York Sun.

Every fire alarm is sounded so that it is heard all over the town in order that the auxiliary men, busy at their regular employment, may hear it and be ready if the call comes. They are to which they are attached. In consequence sometimes it is disconcerting
to the stranger to have the dry goods
clerk who may be waiting on him walk suddenly over the counter and make for the door at a speed that Ty Cobb would envy.

"Is that clerk crazy?" asked a woman who was so deserted in a department store.

"No, madam," explained the floor-walker, "you see that was his number."

If the barber in the hotel suddenly slaps the brush into your ear and d/ys
a whirling dervish act with his apron
as he springs for the door that means that he has just heard the fire alarm and that he is rushing to the door to finish lathering yourself and one of the other men will come over and complete the shave in due time.

Undertakers desert funerals, painters jump from their scaffolds, waiters drop
their trays, drug clerks leave their job,
water spouting if the deep toned whistle or the resonant bell sounds the combination that denotes that there is a fire in the district to which they are attached.

In the largest city in Maine this practice actually became so general that after the sounding of an alarm that business communications over the telephone wires were seriously interfered with. The telephone company wrestled with the problem for some time and finally printed a half page advertisement for a week in all the daily papers asking that subscribers refrain from making inquiries regarding fire alarms unless they actually resided in the district concerned.

But the dentist will still leave you with a gas in your mouth, the taxicab driver will leave you stalled in the middle of the street, the butcher leave you standing helplessly in front of the chopping block and the grocery boy will leave your goods on the dumbwaiter half way between heaven and the ash can. "It was his number!" is all the explanation necessary.

The sudden popularity of the amendment for the direct election of senators suggests that even in Rhode Island the reactionists left-

1,000 WORDS ARE MADE SHORTER

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING BOARD IS-SUES FOURTH LIST OF CHANGES.

WOULD DROP SILENT LETTERS

Public Requested Not to Be Influenced
By Odd Appearance, But Rather
By Benefits.

New York, March 24.—The simplified spelling board has issued its fourth list of words to appear in new fashioned orthography. Approximately 1,000 words are shortened or changed in spelling.

"In considering these new spellings,"
the board said in announcing the new list, "do not be too much influenced by the odd appearance of the words. Any change must look odd at first. Consider, rather, whether the change will bring a real gain if the public should accept it."

Some of the changes are:
Dropping the silent h in such words
as "chaos" and "chameleon;" dropping the final k in words like hammock, chamberlain, heart and hearth to hart and harth; dropping the silent
e in money and similar words; substituting laf for laugh and cof for cough; omitting g in gnaw, gnome or similar words; substituting nee for knee and nicknack for nicknack; dropping the k in similar words; changing pranced to pranst and other words ending with need to nest.

The word touch is spelled tuch; servius is changed to serlus; blow is spelled blaw; below is changed to belo;
forced to forst; phantom to fantom;
handsome to handsum; boss to boas;
glue to glu and wretch to retch. Each of these instances typifies a rule and is followed by a long list of words to which it applies.

Andrew Carnegie, Theodore Roosevelt and a score of other noted men are included in the list of the board's members.

The list is contained in a 16-page pamphlet, circular No. 26, in the regular series. The new recommendations of the board are compared in 50 rules some of which involve changes more noticeable than any of those
it has hitherto put forth.

All the rules so far recommended are applied in the present circular, and the 4-page introduction exhibits such striking examples as following, publish-already, speld, preferd, thruout, cald, wor-practis, extensiv, haf, orthographic, welcutiv, definit, determind, od, catalog,
serius, fysicians, dout, themselfs, givis,
seris, digrafts, anomalus, aliterd, caracteristic, filologic, ful, clais, enterd, anser, trend, morgage, yoman, obvlusly, paragrafs.

One reason that the changed spellings are so much in evidence on the printed page is that so many of the simplifications now recommended affect words in more common use than those in the three former lists.

The "First List" (the "Three Hundred Words" published in 1906), indeed, as the circular points out, was not a list of newly simplified words
at all, but a selection of simpler forms from more than 3,000 words already in good use, being, in the greater part,
those preferred by the three principal American dictionaries.

The "Second List" published two years later, contained some forms that were unfamiliar to readers of the modern literature, but that were the most part restorations of simplifications formerly in high literary use.
A year later (1909), the "Third List"
appeared, containing only four generalizations. The three lists were then put together in one "Alphabetic List,"
also issued in 1909.

Since that time, the circular states,
the board has been engaged in the preparation of a provisional "Vocabular of Simplifications" intended to include all the ordinary words of the English language that admit any simplification of spelling, according to the existing rules and analogies, and without increasing the present alfab-et.

This "Vocabulary" is ready to be published when it shall appear that the supporters of the general
cause are ready to accept it.

The "Fourth List" is put forth to remove many minor irregularities and thus clear the ground for the work that is to be done.

The circular goes on to say, "The Simplified Spelling Board and its advisory council and the many thousands of teachers, clerks, superintendents, clergymen, lawyers, physicians and
other supporters for whom they speak, declare their desire to bring about an improvement in English spelling, in this way, in these words, here and now."

And allowing for the necessary, and indeed desirable, proportion of criticism and doubt which always accompanies new proposals,
may say that this great body of educated men and women, no matter
in what degree they use the simplified spellings themselves, will hereafter advise teachers to teach the children to use these new spellings.

The reader is urged, in considering these new spellings, not to be "too much influenced by the 'odd' appearance of the word. Any change must look odd at first. Consider, rather, whether the change would bring a real gain if the public should accept it. Consider whether the change is in the right direction—the direction of simplicity, economy, regularity, reason."

Some of the new spellings recommended by the board are as follows:
Omitting the h after c in words like chameleon, chaos, character, chasm,
chorus, archaic, echo, etc. (Rule 1).
And the spell then, chameleon, coas,
character, casm, chorus, arcaic, eco, etc.

Dropping the final silent -e after a single consonant preceded by a short vowel, stress, "or by any stress vowel whose sound is not conventionally associated with the silent final -e" (Rule 3).
This gives such forms as: bad,
hav, gliv, liv, forgiv, misgiv, ar, gon,
wer, etc.

Changing final -ew, pronounced as long u, after l, r, or ch, to -u (Rule 5);
and dropping the final -e in words ending in -ue, pronounced like long u, after l and r (Rule 27). The application of these rules gives rise to forms
like blu (for blew), clu, flu, slu, bru, eru, dru, thru (for threw), chu; and
mbu (for blue), glu, ru, tru, accru,
imbu, etc.

Rules 16 and 20, referring to final
-ee and -ow, pronounced like o, produce similar changes with respect to such words: such as do, flo, fo, ho, ro (for roe and row), wo, and blo, bo, cro, glo, sno, belo, bello, mello, pillo

willo, etc.

GB pronounced f is changed to f, by Rule 8, in words ending in -augh,
-ought, and -ough; and such forms
result as draft, laf, latter, cof, enuf, ruf and tuf. And silent gh is dropped from augh, and from ough pronounced like ou (Rule 9). Hence we have aut, count, daunt, haunt, chaunt, taut, and the like; and drou (for drought).

Words beginning with gn- (Rule 16)
and kn- (Rule 12) pronounced n, drop
the initial g and k, giving nash, nat,
nav, nome, etc, and nack, nave, need, neef, nife, nit, nob, nock, etc. For the present the k is retained in kno (know) and knolege (knowledge).

Ph pronounced f is changed to f in all cases (Rule 21), and affects a multitude of words, many in common use, like telephone, fonograf, telegraf,
etc.

Then, by a general rule (30) and several special rules, there is a wholesale dropping of the final letter in words ending in double consonants -bb,
-dd, -ff, -gg, -ll, -rr, -ss, -tt and -zz,
resulting in, for example, ab, od, of, ul,
eg, wel, ul, er, glas, mis, nat, buz,
etc.

The silent w is dropped from words
beginning with wr- (Rule 28), producing the forms rap, reaf, reath,
rench, retched, riegler, rist, riter, riter,
rofk and so forth.

Another conspicuous change is in dropping the o in the termination
-our (Rule 19). Hence we see enormous, famus, glorius, ridiculus, etc.
The circular gives a long list of them.

Final -some, too, becomes -sum, in words like silsome, gladsome, handsome and the like, which the simple spellers will now write fulsum, glad-sum, handsum.

Other silent letters are dropped in special cases; and the preterits ending in -need and -rased, pronounced respectively, nest and ras, are so recommended to be spelled, as in danst,
convinst, forst, pierst, evidnst, etc.

PIANO RUNS WILD.
Strange Musical Performance in a St.
Paul Saloon.

A fire such as never was called out by the fire fighters recently, and even when they got there they found themselves unable to make any real impression on the blaze.

The fire was inside a piano in a room in the rear of a downtown saloon. Some one put a nickel in the electric piano early in the evening, and the machine started going and it never did stop. Something weird happened to it, in the opinion of those who heard it, for all evening long it played without tiring and without asking the encouragement of another nickel.

Early in the morning the music grew more and more impassioned, like the music of some fiery troubadour from the hot countries, pleading his passionate love in song. It sizzled to the boiling point and then something happened inside the piano, and it stopped abruptly.

Strangely enough the lights didn't go out, as is usually the case when the piano stops. The dancers put in another nickel but the piano's strength apparently was spent. It had not another note to offer. The dancers sat down to recover from their long exercise and then suddenly one of them pointed at the machine. "Look," the pointer shouted, "it's on fire!"

Efforts were made to investigate, but though the machine was opened up and the switch turned off the little spiral of smoke continued to mount toward the ceiling. By this time it was getting so late that it was time to shut up. The proprietor of the place, who lets out rooms upstairs,
feared to retire while the eerie piano
was still burning, so he sent word to the central police station to "knowled-

Problems of the Farmer

Fort Worth, March 29.—I have received many letters from business men throughout the state commenting on my previous articles and suggesting that we need these heart-to-heart talks between industries. I am accustomed to farming with a hoe and not with a pen, and in my embarrassment, I hope I will not chop down any good intentions or trample on worthy efforts. I desire only to harrow the seed-beds of friendship and cultivate the plants of co-operation, to a more vigorous growth and a more perfect fruition.

We can build abiding structures only upon solid foundations and we had as well strike rock bottom before going any further. I am not unmindful of the fact that my environments qualify me to perhaps give more fully the agricultural side of this great economic subject, but as 75 per cent of our population are farmers and the problem is ours, the barnyard viewpoint must be reckoned with by those who deal with the subject. A panoramic view of the scenes transpiring in Texas during the past quarter of a century will help us, as no one can hope to understand the farmer until they understand his problems.

As the Farmer Sees It.
Those who have stood by the wayside have seen the farmers, year by year, stagger to market under the weight of 4,000,000 bales of cotton, loaded on our way by a crop indebtedness of approximately $75,000,000,
and have heard the crash of 1,000 farms per annum as they fall from the owner to the tenant class. During the past quarter of a century they have seen the agricultural interests writhing
in agony and in exceptional cases burn cotton, have heard us bless the boll weevil and pray for a drought in our frenzied effort to steady the market and balance supply with demand. They have seen us, demanded by despair,
benumbed by adversity and fettered
by necessity, hold out a palsied hand
for relief and some of the business men who diagnosed our case concluded that what we needed was increased production and proceeded to help us get it.

Banquets have been held in cities
and agricultural associations promoted and the press has announced that a great movement for the betterment of agriculture is on and the farmer
is told to fall in line, follow printed instructions and production will be doubled and we will all live happy ever after. He is then urged to enter a crop contest and the farmer who wins the prize usually loses a crop, gets his picture in the paper and a general press claps its hands and shouts, "Ain't he smart! Ain't he smart!" The real farmer looks on and wonders what all this child's play means. Do the business men really believe they can solve our problems with toys, speeches and fancy farming? We hope not. To those not acquainted with our problems, statements

in this article may sound hysterical but the foundation of our homes, the welfare of our families and the education of our children are involved in this problem and we have a right to hind the action of all of us and it is played with in so haphazard a manner. Then the problem is ours. It is our property and our destiny you are dealing with and why should we not have a voice in its solution.

It would seem a hopeless task to harmonize our views, were it not for the fact that good intentions are behind the action of all of us and it is only misunderstanding and lack of information that keep us apart. It will require the combined effort of all forces to solve so gigantic a problem and no doubt the same amount of study will land all at the same conclusion. The difference is largely one of theory and practice. The farmer has learned his lesson by experience.
We have learned them as a child learns that fire will burn. Should we be expected to discard them for fads

Marketing Will Increase Immigration.

On behalf of the Farmers' union, I want to say that our organization stands for all there is in farming, from the most scientific methods of seed selection, to the most systematic and profitable plans of marketing. We consider the work of the farm demonstrators valuable and we ask that governmental and commercial agencies, seeking to assist us, extend their influence
into the marketing side of our farm problems. We realize that there are 100,000,000 acres of uncultivated land
in Texas and that its development must necessarily mean an increase in production. We want more farmers, more manufacturers, more merchants,
and all other industries, but can we hope to develop manufacturing by over-production of the factory; can we build up mercantile enterprises by the merchants loading their shelves with surplus goods, and can we develop agriculture by glutting the market? Farming is a business proposition and why not apply business prin-

mo chapel, the corner stone of Texas liberty, Texas may unveil the most magnificent and tallest monument in the world. Then loyal Texans may feel that they have paid a debt of gratitude owed to those brave and sacrificing men who gave their lives to free Texas from oppression.

Many persons may feel they cannot afford to give anything to this great work, and others may not consider it worth fifty cents to them to live in a free country where their lives and property are safe, forgetful that Travis and his brave band gave their lives in this cause, but there are many that will contribute not only for themselves, but for others also, will do far more than their share, each of them, because of being loyal Texans and above sectional pride and prejudice. That posterity may know who have helped to build this monument, a card index or register will be kept in the archives which will show each contributor to the building fund, each card bearing the signature of one donor and a record of place of birth, residence in Texas and amount contributed. These cards will be in the custody of the superintendent of the monument and be preserved in the museum where they may be seen and studied by visitors.

Active work of raising the building fund was begun a few weeks ago, tickets having been placed in the banks and trust companies throughout Texas for sale to those desiring them, each bank retaining the money received on deposit until called for by the trustees to be put to the use for which it is given. Already much interest in the monument has been aroused and county agents are explaining the plan and purpose to the people in their respective territories, arousing more interest every day, so the monument fund is increasing rapidly. Each day brings nearer the time when the actual work of constructing this new world's wonder may be begun, and each ticket purchased makes this work possible.

WEATHER TO RULE COTTON

Planting Season Occupies Much Attention—Spot Markets Looked to for Revival.

New Orleans, March 30.—This week the weather promises to rule the cotton market. Some attention is bound to be paid to the river situation and to developments in Europe, but weather conditions over the south will be the main influence. Fair weather will encourage the short side again while more rain and low temperatures will stimulate buying and, if the action of the market toward the end of last week is anything to go by, may cause materially higher prices.

With the first of April the planting season is on in earnest over the cotton belt, although planting extends some times well into May. In the ordinary year, the bulk of the crop should be in the ground by the middle of April. Much cotton is usually planted during the first week in April, while by the tenth planting is general. Such weather as has been experienced of late, would prevent this program from being carried out and would necessarily result in a late crop open to all the vicissitudes of a crop growing later than usual, the chief danger being from the boll weevil. Early planted crops escape the full broods of weevils that are hatched out. A late crop also is more liable to damage by frost. The heaviest fear is that this season and this week's weather will determine whether planting will be at about the average date or whether it will be late.

It is now generally conceded that the crop cannot get a start much earlier than the average and some believe it will be late anyhow, no matter how favorable the weather is for now on. Because of this state of affairs, the trade can hardly put anything ahead of whether conditions as market influence.

Spot markets will be watched for signs of a revival in the demand consequent upon the prevailing belief in better conditions in Europe. Anything new in spots would have an immediate bearing on the May position and would also have more or less influence on July in which a considerable straddle interest still exists.

Human Machine. What are you doing to keep this delicately adjusted and marvellous apparatus in continuous working order? Do you take into consideration your mental state and how that state is produced by what you eat, drink and with whom you associate?

We are now passing the age of voodoo, medicine men, charms and superstition and are on the threshold of a machine civilization. Such medicines as we keep in modern homes will be poured into the sewers instead of our mouths. Our doctors will call to find out what we eat and drink; in that they may not have to call to guess what is the matter with us. The human body is a first cousin to a railroad locomotive, the stomach is the fire box. There is some kind of fuel that can be used in a locomotive fire box with burning it out. There is some water that can't be used in the boiler without forming scale. So it is with the human machine or locomotive. There is some kind of food (fuel) that can't be used in the human body (the stomach) and some kind of water that cannot be used in the human boiler, because it makes a scale in the veins or causes the boiler to burn out. Why not consider this when ordering a drink at a soda fountain, and order Dr. Pepper's diet soda water? We don't order our stomach. Dr. Pepper is the best body fuel. It is liquid energy. Try it and be convinced.

OLD GLASS IN FAVOR

INDUSTRY ATTAINED ITS HIGHEST PLANE IN EIGHTEENTH CENTURY.

Beautiful Drinking Cups Were Made to Hold a Yard of Ale, So Claims One Man.

(London Correspondence New York Sun.)

The fascination of old glass is perennial, although its devotees are few in number compared with the collectors of other subjects of art. It is, however, coming into favor again in the best houses.

Old English table glass practically commences with the eighteenth century. Windsor Castle and the British Museum treasure up specimens wrought by the hand of Jacob Verelst, a famous glassmaker, who worked in Crutched Friars during Elizabeth's reign. He was a Venetian, and Italy had brought glassblowing to perfection long before France and England acquired the art.

It was not until the eighteenth century that real steps were taken to develop the industry. A manufactory was established about the year 1773, and to encourage it in every way possible, it was established by letters patent. The decree went forth that working in glass should not "degrade anything from nobility, and none but nobles should be allowed to work therein." The undertaking appears to have been considerably embarrassed financially, the chief reason being the necessity for competing against powerful foreign establishments.

The "gentleman glassmakers" set to work and carried their art to perfection when foreign competition ceased.

During the eighteenth century most beautiful wine glasses were fashioned with the characteristic English air twisted stems. Air bubbles were introduced and glasses drawn out and twisted. Sometimes these stems were made all in one with the graceful bowl and at other times separate, being afterwards welded on.

The variety in drinking glasses is enormous. There are quaint little squat draw glasses, barely two inches high, and, in contrast, the "yards of ale." These latter resemble long, slender vases, curving gradually larger at the top. Few of them have survived, though some about half a yard in height are occasionally discovered.

Then there are quaint old travelers' glasses, with only a small knob instead of a foot. These can only stand upside down. They were handed to the coach passengers and filled and drained during the short pauses at wayside inns. Other queer glasses have a very solid base and are fashioned strongly to applaud toasts by hammering on the table.

The Jacobite glasses often had a rose and two buds, symbolizing King James II. and the Old and Young Pretenders, engraved under the foot. The Orangemen inscribed their glasses with eulogies of King William, and further added curses upon those who refused to toast him. Ceremonial goblets for the city companies bear rich engravings for civic arms and mottoes. Some long-stemmed old glasses have cut edges, making them impossible for drinking purposes and leading one to conclude that they must have been used for sweetmeats. Old enough now to be original, how quaintly and charmingly they would adorn the modern dining table.

Early decanters were big in the body but gracefully tapered upward, bottle-shaped, with true lovers' knots, or something equally simple engraved thereon, and certain it is that our modern specimens cannot compare with those made in the eighteenth century. The fascination of this hobby grows with every fresh piece that is acquired, but collectors will do well to be on their guard. Forgeries are numerous, and much must be learned concerning the bowls, stems, and other characteristics if the would-be collector is to be proud of.

NO COLD WAVE IN SIGHT

Temperatures Above Seasonal Averages Are Predicted by Government Bureau Experts.

Washington, March 30.—Temperatures above the seasonal average over most of the country, with precipitation generally below normal in the north and normal in the south, probably will prevail during the coming week, according to the weather bureau's weekly bulletin.

"No pronounced cold wave will cross the country during the week," the bulletin predicts. "A disturbance will appear in the far west Tuesday, cross the middle west Thursday or Friday. This disturbance will be attended by general rains and be followed by a change to cooler weather."

A MARK FOR CARTOONISTS.

Late German Foreign Minister Was Called "The Dumping." Here von Kiderlen-Waechter, the late German foreign minister, known on account of his rotund figure as "The Dumping," was a boon to cartoonists all his life. So much was this the case that in 1894, tired of the attacks in the paper, he fought a duel with the editor of Kladderadatsch, whom he left on the field of honor with a bullet wound in the right shoulder.

In France "ridicule kills." In Germany apparently it does not, for the man whose gaudy waistcoat and blunt oratory caused him to be laughed down in the Reichstag only four years ago, lived to be the recognized leader of Germany's Bismarckian world policy.

Herr von Kiderlen-Waechter when he sat down amid the roars of laughter of the house in November, 1903, after endeavoring to defend the German foreign office against charges of inefficiency, was probably the only man who knew he would get over the reception. Everyone else considered his career ended.

12,000 SOLDIERS AWAIT PAY

March Pay Roll at Galveston and Texas City Will Amount to More Than $400,000.

Galveston, March 30.—The 12,000 soldiers of the second division of the United States army now mobilized at Galveston and Texas City under the command of Major General Wm. H. Carter will be mustered tomorrow in the preparations of pay rolls for March services. The March pay roll for the division will amount to more than $400,000. Officers of the quartermaster's corps expect that the division will be paid within ten days.

General Carter has mapped out an extensive program of maneuvers in which all organizations of the division will take part. Work on this program will take place soon after the March pay has been distributed to the men. All officers of the army service school at Fort Leavenworth have been relieved from duty there and have been ordered to report to the commanding officer of the second division for assignment for instruction during the coming program of maneuvers. Many of these officers have already reported.

Preparing for Fall Fair.

San Saba, Tex., March 30.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the fair and encampment, which is scheduled to be held in this city August 12 to 15. It is planned to have the largest county fair ever held in the state. S. E. Kelly is secretary.

Combining beauty, grandeur and usefulness, and representing the patriotic devotion of loyal Texans to the memory of the pioneers who fought for and won liberty, the Alamo Heroes Monument, to be erected in San Antonio on ground hallowed by the blood of the fortress' defenders who preferred death to surrender, will be one of the greatest works ever undertaken in Texas. Its graceful lines that emphasize rather than conceal the rugged strength of the structure will mark it as a work of art; its great height and the massive character of the base, its columns and statuary within and without will give it grandeur, and its usefulness to the people of the whole state will be realized in its galleries, its auditoriums, its museums, its art gallery, its halls for state and national patriotic societies or associations and its individual rooms for each county in Texas for the maintenance of art or historical exhibits.

Highest in the World. The Alamo Heroes Monument will rise to a height of 802 feet, the highest structure in the world. It has been designed along modern lines to possess strength and stability such as would not have been possible when the tower of Babel was built, for modern engineering has made possible feats that were impossible then or, for that matter, were impossible only a generation ago; yet with all the advance the science of engineering has made, this monument will be one of its greatest accomplishments. It will contain four spacious auditoriums, a museum, an art gallery and statutory hall and a separate room for every county in Texas to be devoted by each to the encouragement of art and history by the maintenance of exhibits along these lines associated with that county. Near the top balconies will be provided for visitors that wish to take a look into the neighboring counties through large telescopes to be provided for that purpose.

Will Rest on Granite Base. The base of the monument will be of solid granite rising to a height of fifty feet. On this base will be placed at each corner of the monument and arranged around the shaft huge pillars, each eight feet in diameter and seventy feet high, all of solid Texas granite. These pillars will be surmounted by heroic-size statues of Travis, Crockett, Bowie and Bonham, the four great leaders who died in the Alamo with the men in their commands who had followed them devotedly in the early days of the campaign for liberty, and who did not hesitate to follow them even to death. Above these statues will be placed the six flags that have waved at different times over Texas, the Lone Star and the United States flags in the center, and on each side the flag of the Confederate states of America.

Lobby Will be Impressive. The exquisite grandeur of design and the architecture of the structure will impress itself on the mind whether viewed from without or within. The great lobby will focus the extent and magnitude of the monument like a beautiful and magnificent image that takes possession of the thoughts to the exclusion for the moment of all else. Everything about the structure will be on grand proportions and the lobby will be one of the most impressive sights of the monument. Visitors are to have free access to it at times.

Its inside measurements will be 32½ feet square, which also will be the inside measurements of the auditorium, museum and art gallery, each of which will be larger than any hall in San Antonio today. The ceiling of the lobby will be fifty feet high, an opening in the center eight feet across forming its summit, and this opening will be to a height of 120 feet in the shaft, in which one will be placed in each corner and extending to the base of the dome. These elevators will have large carrying capacity, which will be necessary to accommodate the immense crowds that will visit the monument.

Rooms for Counties. The rooms apportioned to the different counties of Texas, in number between 275 and 300 (for some will have to be provided for new counties that will be created in the years to come), will be located within the shaft of the monument, above the four floors in which will be placed the auditoriums, museum, art gallery and chambers for patriotic organizations. These will be reached by the elevators, one of which will be designated to serve them while the other lift run on express schedules between the first landing at a height of about 120 feet, and the balconies at the top.

The dome of the monument will not be open to visitors, but will be offered to the federal government for an observatory such as is now maintained at a few places in the United States and which is much needed in the south. At the very top of the great structure will be located a powerful searchlight, the strongest that will be made, which will be turned on at night and will be visible at great distances, far beyond points from which the great tower itself may be seen.

How It Will be Maintained. For the maintenance of this monument an admission price of fifty cents will be charged to the museum and art gallery, and another admission price of fifty cents will be charged for a trip in one of the four elevators to the balconies near the top of the structure. There now are for sale at half price, that is, one ticket now being sold for the building fund will entitle the holder to admission to art gallery and museum and to the elevator trip to the balconies and return. It is contemplated to raise the sum of two million dollars for its construction by and through the sale of four million whole admission tickets at half price. There are four million inhabitants in Texas and this association, with the aid of its county organizations, which are now being formed, purposes raising fifty cents for each inhabitant in each county. The projectors of the monument believe that this amount may be raised within one year by hard work and estimate that three years will be required to construct the monument. On this basis they hope in 1918, the two hundredth anniversary of the building of the Alamo

Dr. W. B. Riley Draws Large Audience at Evening Service in First Baptist Church.

With Charles Butler of Georgia, leading the singing, and the church and Sunday school rooms filled by the congregation, Dr. W. B. Riley, pastor of the First Baptist church of Minneapolis, preached last night at the Columbus Street Baptist church, taking as his text Luke XII, 8-9, which reads:

"Also I say unto you, whosoever shall confess me before men, I will confess him before my Father which is in heaven. But he that denieth me before men, I will deny him before my Father which is in heaven."

Dr. Riley built about his text the thought that a man who is a map must be on one side or the other, and that the fellow "on the fence" is a useless article of furniture.

In these days, he said, men are wont to talk of essentials and non-essentials of religion, discussing them at length, but in his opinion every word in the Bible is essential, some to salvation and some to obedience of the follower. The men who argue as to essentials, he said, are those who would like to slip into heaven with as little trouble as possible, and hence are interested in all those things which they can eliminate from the Bible and label "Non-Essentials."

The right sort of man, he said, that really loves Jesus will pray that God will teach him his word and for the strength and the spirit to properly obey.

He declared that the historical act involved in the text he had taken for the evening is an appeal for man to tell the truth. Never was there a time in history, he said, when courageous men were afraid to tell the truth, and the man who loves Christ should have the courage to say so.

The telling of the truth, he said, he had always held to be for the ultimate good of the entire world.

The reason, he said, physicians often look askance at the patent medicine man who advertises that he has some secret process by which he can cure a disease, is because medical students, when they leave the university, are pledged to give freely to the world any discoveries in the science which may be of benefit to the world. They tell the truth about what they find, and the witness in court, for the benefit of all concerned, is also sworn to tell the truth.

He declared the text he had chosen is essential because it is an expression of the natural volition of a regenerate heart.

He illustrated by asking how any member of his audience would like to be married to a man who was ashamed to present him to the world as her husband. Christ's love is greater than that of a mother for her children—and Christ expects to get a response from those whom He loves.

Besides, he said, a man who loves Christ cannot keep it to himself. It is just like when a man has anything else good come into his life—he must tell the news to others.

He told a story of the old negro who went north and warned the Methodists and the Baptists in the white churches up there that the Catholics were trying to convert all the negroes in the south. He explained, however, that the Methodists and the Baptists would have an advantage over the Catholics in that there was no provision against shouting in the former churches while the Catholics could not shout at all. A negro, he said, must joyously express his feelings when he becomes converted.

He declared it necessary to confess Christ from a point of personal safety. He told that men who believed in Christ, love Him, but do not publicly profess their faith and when the time of storm and trial comes, it is easier for the forces of evil to conquer his allegiance from the Master than were his attitude known to the whole world. When a man's attitude is known to all, it often, through his pride, will hold him over the bad place.

By another illustration he showed that men are often led astray when they see a good man who is not in the church, boasting that it is not necessary for a man to be a member of a church to be good. The man doing the talking is usually bad and does not realize that the power of Jesus is relied upon by the man of whom he is speaking, and that this only keeps his life pure.

While he did not desire to make an onslaught on the secret societies, he said, he wished to deny the claims of some that they are as good as the church. The secret societies are for mutual benefit, but the church sends missionaries to teach negroes and Chinese and the money is not expected to come back.

As he sees it, there is a gulf and on the one side stands Christ and on the other Satan. He did not want anyone to doubt for one instant on which side of the gulf he would stand.

REV. H. D. KNICKERBOCKER SPEAKS ON SUFFRAGE MOVEMENT.

DECLARES POWER DUE THEM

Minister Prefers Ward Meeting Influences to Modern Dance and Card Tables.

"An Absolutely Lovely Woman" was the subject of Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker's sermon last night at the Austin Avenue Methodist church. Preaching principally from his subhead, which was "Shall a Woman Vote?" he made a strong plea for the doing away with the double standard in social life, economic matters, politics and every phase of modern life, for, as he said, there is nowhere that the man-made conditions do not reach and discriminate against the female sex.

There was a time, he said, when he felt that the woman should keep out of politics; he had no reasons, as no other man really has, but it was simply his idea that she should keep out. The only thing that kept every man from accepting the rights of women is sentiment and prejudice. If the world were ideal there would be no reason for women having votes, but such a condition does not exist. If woman did not have to enter the commercial field an equal economic standard would not be necessary, but there are 7,000,000 women employed in commercial pursuits. This condition makes for a double standard as to wages—men receive more money for work than women receive for the same work.

He spoke of the changing of views from those held twenty-five years ago since he attended a convention at New Orleans.

Ridicule, he said, is and ever has been the weapon of the man who has no argument. The first crank to be caricatured was the flying machine crank. The person who was typifying the crank on aeronautics is represented today by the specialist and inventor who has solved the problem which was at that day but a myth and subject to ridicule. Another crank was represented in the prohibitionist, who with his accomplishments today has succeeded in putting his teachings into force in one-half of the United States.

There was never a man more typical of the country Southern gentleman than Jesus. He illustrated this with the instance of the bringing of the lewd woman to Christ, who, in order to cause no embarrassment to her who even was so low, stooped and made as if writing on the ground. The Savior when dying on the cross stopped dying long enough to caution John about the care of his beloved mother Mary.

There are men, he said, who agree that woman should be protected, but should be kept in her place as queen of the home. That would be well if all men were kings. Woman devotes greater energy than man to the making of a fit place of the world for the rearing of children. There is the argument that woman would suffer from the contaminating influence of politics. "God Almighty has only one standard, and it is a single standard throughout."

He spoke of the unfair laws which place a man to withdraw the money placed in the bank for future needs by a mother. A drunken husband has the right to draw this money and do with it as he sees fit. In England a man may secure a divorce from his wife on grounds of infidelity, but a woman cannot do so. There is the argument that a man has been guilty of the vilest infidelity, the woman has no recourse. It is the curse of a man-made double standard.

"If mixing in politics will spoil a good man, then the wife of a good man," were words of the speaker. "A good man has no right to go any place or to do anything that a good woman cannot go or do." The solution would be to make politics clean by the united power of good women and good men, and there could be no objection to women having a voice

EXTENDS CALL OF GREAT SHEPHERD

REV. W. B. RILEY MAKES URGENT APPEAL TO WRONG DOERS.

DECLARES BYWAYS ARE MANY

Minister Cites Instances as Proof of Statements at Columbus Street Baptist Church.

Rev. W. B. Riley, who is conducting a revival for the Columbus Street Baptist church, preached to a large audience at the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon. Dr. Riley took his text from the fifteenth chapter of Luke.

The figure of the shepherd and sheep is one of the most common found in the Bible, he said, because of the fact that sheep raising was one of the most common occupations of that day. He referred to the twenty-third Psalm which, he said, is probably the best known of any part of scripture. Any one who knows anything about sheep knows the animal is the most likely of all domestic animals to go astray. The horse is seldom lost, the dog more seldom and the cat, he said, it is impossible to lose.

"Strange it is that man, with all his intelligence, goes astray as easily as the sheep," said the speaker. The sheep, when lost, is lost for good unless someone finds it. The same is true of man.

Dr. Riley spoke of the cities and the number that are going astray with such ease continually, saying: "A young woman was killed by a train in a city recently and the body taken to the morgue. Five hundred mothers and fathers visited the place in an attempt to identify the body. That many parents in the city had daughters who had disappeared. This serves to show somewhat of the number that are straying continually."

He spoke of the fact that some people express themselves as seeking the Lord. He assured his hearers that there was little need of seeking the Lord. He is continually seeking the sinners. "The sinner who is seeking the Lord and the sinner who is seeking the Lord will soon get together. The Lord does not give up the search."

He told of a child that had been lost in the woods until it had become demented. Hundreds of searchers were out and the woods were combed over time and time again. On the fifth day the child was found. After it had become normal in its mind, it was asked why it had not heard the searchers. The child answered that he had heard but there were so many voices he was frightened and had hidden.

"So it is with man of today. God, through the church, is seeking the lost on every hand. Nothing seems to be left undone that the saving power might be brought to the knowledge of the sinner, and the sinner fears from the one that would save."

Dr. Riley spoke of the great rejoicing in heaven at the finding of a lost soul. "When men and women yield to Christ the happiest one in the universe is the great Shepherd himself. He will make the decision that it was not making an attempt to get into any one church, but to make open confession and unite as soon as possible with some—any Christian church."

In response to the invitation seven young people, two of them men, came forward.

Charles Butler, who led the singing, sang a solo at the close of the service. Mr. Butler has a most pleasing voice, and his work is a great aid to the effective work that Dr. Riley is accomplishing.

He referred to the twenty-third Psalm which, he said, is probably the best known of any part of scripture. Any one who knows anything about sheep knows the animal is the most likely of all domestic animals to go astray. The horse is seldom lost, the dog more seldom and the cat, he said, it is impossible to lose.

"Strange it is that man, with all his intelligence, goes astray as easily as the sheep," said the speaker. The sheep, when lost, is lost for good unless someone finds it. The same is true of man.

Dr. Riley spoke of the cities and the number that are going astray with such ease continually, saying: "A young woman was killed by a train in a city recently and the body taken to the morgue. Five hundred mothers and fathers visited the place in an attempt to identify the body. That many parents in the city had daughters who had disappeared. This serves to show somewhat of the number that are straying continually."

He spoke of the fact that some people express themselves as seeking the Lord. He assured his hearers that there was little need of seeking the Lord. He is continually seeking the sinners. "The sinner who is seeking the Lord and the sinner who is seeking the Lord will soon get together. The Lord does not give up the search."

He told of a child that had been lost in the woods until it had become demented. Hundreds of searchers were out and the woods were combed over time and time again. On the fifth day the child was found. After it had become normal in its mind, it was asked why it had not heard the searchers. The child answered that he had heard but there were so many voices he was frightened and had hidden.

"So it is with man of today. God, through the church, is seeking the lost on every hand. Nothing seems to be left undone that the saving power might be brought to the knowledge of the sinner, and the sinner fears from the one that would save."

Dr. Riley spoke of the great rejoicing in heaven at the finding of a lost soul. "When men and women yield to Christ the happiest one in the universe is the great Shepherd himself. He will make the decision that it was not making an attempt to get into any one church, but to make open confession and unite as soon as possible with some—any Christian church."

In response to the invitation seven young people, two of them men, came forward.

Charles Butler, who led the singing, sang a solo at the close of the service. Mr. Butler has a most pleasing voice, and his work is a great aid to the effective work that Dr. Riley is accomplishing.

FLOOD VICTIMS ARE RELIEVED

THE GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS ON DUTY REPORT TO WASHINGTON.

ALL SURVIVORS GET SUPPLIES

Department Will Hold Itself in Readiness to Cope With Situation Along Rivers.

Washington, March 30.—"All places affected by the flood in such a way as to need help, are receiving it and it is not believed that there is any suffering anywhere, now from want of food or shelter," was the report today of Adjutant General Andrews from Major General Wood, chief of staff, who, with Secretary of War Garrison, is in the heart of the flooded district directing relief operations. He added while loss of life had been heavy, it was not anything like the previous steps indicated.

"Do not send any more government supplies," said the report, "unless the department representatives on the ground require it. Any supplies available should be held for possible need further down the river. Major Normoyle has received the great bulk of supplies sent to Columbus and is busily engaged in shipping them out to points where required."

Major Normoyle himself reported that the principal trouble now as to rationing supplies is in the Muskingum valley, which cannot be taken care of from Columbus, but that Mayor Gault had been sent to Parkersburg with authority to hire steamers and purchase supplies for that territory.

Secretary Garrison Reports. A message to the white house from Secretary Garrison announced he had arrived and he expected to go by automobile to Hamilton today, while Miss Boardman, of the American Red Cross, was going to Dayton.

Relief funds received by the Red Cross are nearing the half million mark.

Checks in today's mail including $15,000 from Boston, $10,000 from Hartford, Conn., and $10,000 from a breeding company amounted to $63,000, bringing the total already into $391,000.

From Columbus, Ohio, Ernest B. Bicknell, national director of the American Red Cross, reported that he had established headquarters in the state house and that he would work in close relation with the state food relief committee, as well as with the army. He said he had held an extremely satisfactory conference with Governor Cox and others in authority.

Superintendent Kimball, of the life saving service, today ordered the life saving crew from Lorain, Ohio, which had returned from Delaware, to proceed at once to Covington, Ky., to render whatever aid could be given flood sufferers in that vicinity.

DR. BLOCK INSPECTS FRUIT

Looking Into Damage Caused By the Recent Frost in the Orchards of the County.

While fruit growers in the vicinity of Waco declare much of the fruit, peaches especially, damaged from the recent frosts some of the more optimistic persons entertain hope that possibly half the crop will be harvested.

While on a trip of inspection Sunday to some of the nearby orchards, Dr. B. Block, voluntary weather observer, found many peach buds dead, but at the completion of the trip was of the opinion that all of the crop had not been destroyed. "Many of the buds continued to look healthy," stated the observer. "Fruit growers claim that many of these will show from January 1st. This no doubt is true to some extent but from my observations I judge many of the buds will live to bear fruit."

The farm of S. S. Fleming, sheriff of McLennan county, was one of those visited by Dr. Block in making his examination.

HOW BIG DO CITY DADS GROW

In Waco New Administration Will Average Over 200 Pounds Per Head.

When the new administration goes into office, following the election for city commissioners Tuesday, the combined weight of the mayor and four commissioners will be 1,200 pounds, and the average rate will be 224 pounds.

Commissioner Dollins will be the heavyweight—being full 300 pounds. Commissioner Caulfield will be the lightweight, dropping down to 150. Mr. Dollins is the only slim one in the bunch, the mayor and Commissioners Littlefield, Foster and Dollins all being built along aldermanic lines. This estimate of the weights does not include Secretary John C. Davis. He runs along somewhere in the same class with Commissioner Caulfield.
